Around the Stage Applications

Portable Staging

Standard and custom platforms are used to design portable stages that lock together to create a quality and durable performance surface.

Acoustical Shells

Reflecting sound evenly throughout the stage and toward the audience, acoustical shells add vibrance and elegance to any performance setting.

Orchestra Pit Fillers

For theaters needing more performance space or seating, pit fillers can be customized to fit the exact size and shape of a stage making a seamless surface.

Stage Traps

To store props and scenery between acts, stage traps are durable solutions to provide copious amounts of usable space below the stage.

Seating Wagons

Designed to provide additional audience seating to any size venue, a customized wagon allows users to quickly and easily move seating to storage.

Seating Risers

For a semi-permanent seating solution, seating risers can be easily setup in modular configurations, making the venue highly flexible for a variety of performances.

Sound Mix Areas

To control audio and lighting during performances, often a sound mix area is needed near the back of the house. Often it's constructed of multiple platforms.

Catwalks

To suspend lighting and staging equipment, and assist with behind-the-scenes efforts, catwalks are constructed as elevated platforms above the stage.
